

The New York Times

The New York Times Company
15 Square, New York, N. Y. 10036

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1966.

Florida Turn, Plane, Vanishes

The New York Times July 29, 1966
Plane from Shreveport (1) failed to make a turn near Sarasota (2) and was last sighted over Panama (3).

The missing plane had been scheduled to make a turn between Sarasota and Key West. The Federal Aviation Administration reported that it failed to turn and that subsequent effort.

Continued on Page 9, Column 4

Home Study and Crowding

I. SCHANBERG

nursing homes in the city it has disclosed rats in ceiling rooms, and fire hazards. The continuing inquiry into the homes, filled with the city's aged, was inspired five weeks ago by an anonymous letter to Buildings Commissioner Charles G. Moerdler, who had been weighing such an investigation because of a series of earlier complaints by citizens.

The anonymous letter reported "disgraceful" conditions of filth and overcrowding in a nursing home in Manhattan.

MAYOR SEEKS AID OF LABOR TO SPUR ECONOMY OF CITY

He Hints at Big Project for Navy Yard in Campaign to Improve Business Here

By ROBERT ALDEN

Mayor Lindsay said yesterday that he was beginning a campaign to enlist the support of labor in his effort to stimulate business in the city.

He said that harmony on a broad scale between business and labor was "absolutely essential" in attracting new industry to the city. Labor, he explained, must be willing to accept new techniques, possibly including some forms of automation.

"As an example we have a specific project in mind that will bring new industry into the city on the site of the Brooklyn Navy Yard," the Mayor said in an interview at Gracie Mansion. "We know we are going to have to get the cooperation of labor unions in order to move this industry in," Mr. Lindsay explained. "I'm prepared to work on this matter right out of the Mayor's office in order to reach agreement. I can't think of anything that is of more fundamental importance to the city."

A Time of Crisis

The Mayor acknowledged that this was a time of crisis as far as the economic life of the city was concerned.

"Because of the unknown factors when new business taxes are introduced," he said, "there are repercussions. Any tax shift causes a strain that poses the danger of a business exodus from the city."

Mr. Lindsay explained that in trying to stimulate new business activity in the city labor problems loomed large and he believed that organized labor was becoming increasingly aware that its own interests called for a more flexible attitude.

"Labor is beginning to realize that to stimulate employment old methods of doing things must change," the Mayor said. "Labor must allow business to

REALTORS' LOBBY CALLS FOR FIGHT ON OPEN HOUSING

Bulletin to 83,000 Brokers Hits G.O.P. Compromise in House on Rights Bill

By BEN A. FRANKLIN

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, July 28—Lobbyists for the country's licensed real estate brokers have urged them to "generate an immediate wave of indignation" against the open housing section of the Administration's civil rights bill.

A bulletin has been sent to all 83,000 members of the National Association of Real Estate Brokers by the association's lobbying arm here, the Realtors' Washington Committee.

It accuses the Republican authors of the compromise open occupancy provisions now before the House of using "clever language to distort meaning" and of "telling the press" one thing while "their actions say the opposite."

This became known today as the House completed four days of desultory debate on the bill and prepared to begin voting tomorrow on amendments, section by section. Voting on the controversial open housing section, Title IV, is not expected to begin until next Wednesday.

Realtors Congratulated

The two-page "Legislative Action Bulletin" to licensed realtors congratulated them for previous "grass roots" letter-writing efforts, which, it said, had "inspired a deluge of mail against Title IV, in greater volume than on any issue in the experience of many senior members of Congress."

But it warned that even after the exemptions written into Title IV last month at the suggestion of moderate Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee, "Title IV is more onerous and more oppressive than the original version."

The bulletin continued: "It is more dangerous because it uses clever language to distort meaning, knowing full well that the Federal

Helms Criticized in Senate For Anti-Fulbright

C.I.A. Chief Apologizes for Praising Editorial Attacking Arkansas

By E. W. KENWORTHY

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, July 28—Richard Helms, the new director of the Central Intelligence Agency, was sharply criticized in the Senate today because of a letter he wrote praising an editorial denouncing Senator J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Late this afternoon, Helms called Mr. Fulbright and told him the letter was a mistake and apologized for printing to endorse the editorial's view.

Mr. Helms said he had told Mr. Fulbright:

"I made a mistake and I sincerely regret it."

The editorial, entitled "Bricks for Fulbright," appeared in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat on July 18, four days after the Senate had sidetracked by a vote of 61-to-28 a proposal to add three members of the Foreign Relations Committee to the unofficial subcommittee charged with supervising the intelligence agency.

That subcommittee is made up of seven ranking members of the Armed Services and Appropriations committees under the chairmanship of Richard B.

The New York Times (by George Thomas)
Richard Helms

Russell, Democrat of Georgia, who is also chairman of the Armed Services Committee. The

Continued on Page 10, Column 1

American Jets Set A Record in South With 542 Sorties

Special to The New York Times

SAIGON, South Vietnam, July 28—United States fighter-bombers flew a record total of 542 sorties against enemy positions in South Vietnam yesterday, an American military spokesman said tonight.

It was estimated that about 100 enemy soldiers were killed in the raids.

The spokesman said the pilots had damaged or destroyed 598 buildings and fortifications and 32 sampans. [In addition to

HOUSE UNIT VOTES SCHOOL AID RISE

Education Panel Sends Bill for $5.8-Billion to Floor —Johnson Asked Less

By MARJORIE HUNTER

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, July 28—A $5.8-billion program of Federal aid for elementary and secondary schools was cleared today by the House Education and Labor Committee after weeks of

REHEARS...
in a three-day study of volcanic fields similar to those they may encounter after landing on the moon, U.S. astronauts examine a promontory of lava near Bend, Ore. In the foreground is Air Force Capt. Joe H. Engle.

Helms Is Denounced in Senate For an Anti-Fulbright Letter

Continued From Page 1, Col. 7

proposal to expand the watchdog group was sponsored by Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, Democrat of Minnesota, but it had the full support of Mr. Fulbright and had been sent to the floor by a vote of 14-to-5 in the Foreign Relations Committee.

The Globe-Democrat editorial said the Senate had given "the crafty Arkansan," Mr. Fulbright, "his come-uppance." It continued:

"Fulbright's proposal should have been doomed from the start. It could mean the end of the C.I.A. if the agency were subjected to slaws [claws] of the militant doves on Fulbright's committee."

On July 27, The Globe-Democrat printed the following letter:

"To the Editor:
"I want to let you know of my pleasure in reading the editorial 'Brickbats for Fulbright' in The Globe-Democrat of July 18.

"It reflects so well your paper's policy of printing the news impartially, supporting what it believes to be right and opposing what it believes to be wrong without regard to party politics."

RICHARD HELMS
Director, Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C.

Criticism Is Voiced

"When Senator McCarthy, in midafternoon, read the editorial and letter to the Senate, criticism came hurtling from both sides of the aisle at Mr. Helms, who had been unanimously confirmed a month ago today after a round of prolonged praise for abilities and judgment displayed in nearly 20 years of service with the agency."

Mr. McCarthy said it was "entirely out of place" for Mr. Helms to have "endorsed an editorial of this kind." If he had in fact written the letter and if it had not been written for him by a subordinate, Mr. McCarthy said, then this "involvement in domestic politics" marks a "new departure," which might lead to letters publicly criticizing the agency's opponents.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, asked Mr. McCarthy to yield and said: "I am more than a little surprised that the silent service has seen fit to write to a paper expressing critical opinions about the Senate."

Mr. Mansfield suggested that the Senate's displeasure should be brought to Mr. Helms' attention "so that it will not become a habit with him."

Mr. Mansfield said he had been under the impression that Mr. Helms "could well be the best administrator the C.I.A. ever had."

Coming to the defense of Mr. Fulbright, Senator Mansfield said that the point made by Mr. Fulbright in arguing for inclusion of members of his committee in the watchdog committee—namely that the intelligence agency was involved in foreign policy—was a pertinent not offended by the editorial, but he was surprised that Mr. Helms, a career man, would have so little discretion, and he wondered whether Mr. Helms had misconstrued the Senate's vote of confirmation.

One reason he wanted representation for his committee, Mr. Fulbright said, was to have the opportunity to ask Mr. Helms whether the agency "takes part in domestic affairs." He had heard reports, he said, that "this agency takes part in the elections of unions."

During these exchanges, another member of the watchdog group, Leverett Saltonstall, Republican of Massachusetts, went into the cloakroom to telephone Mr. Helms.

On returning, Mr. Saltonstall said Mr. Helms had told him he had written the letter; that it was a mistake; that he was sorry, and that there were no other such letters.

Later, the Foreign Relations Committee announced Mr. Helms will meet with it in closed session at 10:30 A.M. tomorrow. The meeting was arranged during a conversation between Mr. Fulbright and Mr. Helms after the debate.

C.I.A. Role Confirmed

WASHINGTON, July 28 (UPI) — Senator J. W. Fulbright has given a first-person confirmation that the Central Intelligence Agency "made the case" for the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion.

The Arkansas Democrat said in a censored version of secret Senate debate of July 14 that what had been written about the agency's role before the April 17, 1961, invasion was "by and large, absolutely correct."

The four-hour debate was on a proposal to add three Foreign Relations committeemen to the Congressional group that oversees C.I.A. operations. The proposal was defeated.

Mr. Fulbright said he had attended a two-hour meeting at the State Department with President Kennedy, Allen W. Dulles, then head of the C.I.A., and 15 other persons he did not identify.

"This was before the Bay of Pigs," Mr. Fulbright said. He said Mr. Dulles had presented "the case for intervention."

The Fulbright statement was the first on-the-record confirmation from a participant in the preinvasion talks.

Mr. Fulbright cited the Bay of Pigs and other unspecified cases of C.I.A. intervention in foreign relations as reasons his group shared representation on the C.I.A. watchdog panel.

"I think many of the C.I.A. activities tend to discredit the integrity of our country, and these activities raise a number of questions with respect to the influence of our foreign policy," Mr. Fulbright said.

He asked, "How can we [the committee] give any advice that is worth anything if we are not informed as to what is going on and if we do not have the information on which to base a judgment?"

Two U.S. Girls Assaulted

to channel additional money into largely rural areas, principally in the South.

Currently, Federal funds are allocated on the basis of 50 per cent of a state's per pupil expenditure, multiplied by the number of low-income children. This means that richer states with high per pupil expenditures receive more money.

Under the change, the formula would be based on either 50 per cent of a state's per pupil expenditure or 50 per cent of the national average, currently $500 a pupil.

New York, with a per pupil expenditure of $800, now receives $400 in Federal funds for each low-income school child. The change in formula would therefore not affect New York.

The change would, however, affect the 29 states that now have per pupil expenditures below the national average. For instance, Mississippi spends $273 a child and receives Federal aid of $136 a child. That state's allocation would rise to $250.

North Carolina would be the principal beneficiary, receiving $38.5-million more. Mississippi would get $37.5-million; Alabama, $35.2-million; Tennessee, $31.9-million; Texas, $31-million; Georgia, $30.9-million; Kentucky, $23.5-million.

The committee bill also would increase the poverty income level, on which allocations are based, from the present $2,000 a year to $3,000, effective next year.

Both of these allocation changes, proposed for next year by the House, would be provided this year under a school-aid bill approved by a Senate Education subcommittee. The Senate bill calls for $3.2-billion for the current fiscal year alone.

Piccard Building Submarine For Study of Gulf Stream

MONTHEY, Switzerland, July 28 (UPI) — Landlocked Switzerland, with the help of United States business, is building a submarine for scientific research on North America's Atlantic coast.

The submarine, the PX-15, is scheduled to sail next year from Miami to Halifax, N.S., at an average depth of 2,600 feet. The purpose of the six-week trip is to study animal life along the Gulf Stream.

The 115-ton, 50-foot submarine was designed by Jacques Piccard, the Swiss diving expert. It is being assembled in a factory here. It was said to be financed by the Grumman interests of New York.

Mexsana beats the heat...absorbs moisture 80 times faster...

Keeps you drier, stops skin discomforts, body odor for hours!

Made from medically superior cornstarch, Mexsana Medicated Powder relieves hot weather skin irritations as no talc can.

After every shower, shower on $51,163,730 to Albert Einstein College of Medicine to establish and operate child health care centers in low-income neighborhoods in the Bronx.

Diagnostic Treatment

Under the program, an attempt will be made to give medical and dental examinations to all pre-school and school-age children in the neighborhoods. If the preliminary health examinations turn up any physical defects or other symptoms of trouble, the children will be given diagnostic treatment. If parents cannot provide the needed health care, the child will receive treatment at Government expense.

The grants represent the start of an ambitious program to provide comprehensive health care for needy children. While public attention has been focused on Medicare provisions for the elderly, the legislation also authorizes several programs to provide medical care for needy children.

In addition to the neighborhood program begun today, the law sets up health programs for maternal and child care, for crippled children and special projects for mentally defective children.

Further expansion of health care for needy children will be possible under another provision

Senate Gets Bill to Issue Lapel Pins to G.I. Families

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP) — Gold star lapel buttons would be issued to the next of kin of military personnel who died or die in Vietnam and other combat operations under a bill sent to the Senate today by its Armed Services Committee.

The emblems are the same as those issued during World Wars I and II.

A Pentagon witness told Senators that the buttons would go to parents, wives, children and other next of kin of any who died in military operations since June 30, 1958. That date marked the beginning of the United States military operation in Vietnam and has been used for other military awards.

In addition to Vietnam, awards would be made for these military operations: Berlin, Lebanon, Quemoy and Matsu, Taiwan Strait, Congo, Laos, Dominican Republic and Cuba.

The measure was previously approved by the House.

Sorry.
our fre

Air Canada phones
And we've been
But a lot of people

Here's why. The with peak summer
the normal

If you should happen
please bear with a day, and we'll

7/29/61

P. 10

AIR

in have been start. It could mean the end of group, Levertett Saltonstall, went the C.I.A. if the agency were subjected to slaws [claws] of the militant doves on Fulbright's committee."

On July 27, The Globe-Democrat printed the following letter:

"To the Editor:
I want to let you know of my pleasure in reading the editorial Brickbats for Fulbright in The Globe-Democrat of July 18.

"It reflects so well your paper's policy of printing the news impartially, supporting what it believes to be right and opposing what it believes to be wrong without regard to party politics."

RICHARD HELMS
Director, Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C.

Criticism Is Voiced

"When Senator McCarthy, in midafternoon, read the editorial and letter to the Senate, criticism came hurtling from both sides of the aisle at Mr. Helms, who had been unanimously confirmed a month ago today after a round of prolonged praise for abilities and judgment displayed in nearly 20 years of service with the agency.

Mr. McCarthy said it was "entirely out of place" for Mr. Helms to have "endorsed an editorial of this kind." If he had in fact written the letter and if it had not been written for him by a subordinate, Mr. McCarthy said, then this "involvement in domestic politics" marks a "new departure," which might lead to letters publicly criticizing the agency's opponents.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, asked Mr. McCarthy to yield and said: "I am more than a little surprised that the silent service has seen fit to write to a paper expressing critical opinions about the Senate."

Mr. Mansfield suggested that the Senate's displeasure should be brought to Mr. Helms' attention "so that it will not become a habit with him."

Mr. Mansfield said he had been under the impression that Mr. Helms "could well be the best administrator the C.I.A. ever had."

Coming to the defense of Mr. Fulbright, Senator Mansfield said that the point made by Mr. Fulbright in arguing for inclusion of members of his committee in the watchdog committee—namely that the intelligence agency was involved in foreign policy—was a pertinent one.

No one, Mr. Mansfield said, had ever accused Mr. Fulbright of being "crafty."

Mr. McCarthy said that Mr. Helms owed an apology not only to the Senators who had supported his resolution but also to every member of the Senate. Senator Frank E. Moss, Democrat of Utah, said the agency was supposed to work "clandestinely" but now was found writing a letter praising "an offensive editorial."

Two members of the watchdog committee then joined in the criticism of Mr. Helms. Milton R. Young, Republican of North Dakota, said he was "disappointed and shocked," and John Stennis, Democrat of Mississippi, called the letter "very unfortunate."

Mr. Fulbright said he was injured.

On returning, Mr. Saltonstall said Mr. Helms had told him he had written the letter; that it was a mistake; that he was sorry, and that there were no other such letters.

Later, the Foreign Relations Committee announced Mr. Helms will meet with it in closed session at 10:30 A.M. tomorrow. The meeting was arranged during a conversation between Mr. Fulbright and Mr. Helms after the debate.

C.I.A. Role Confirmed

WASHINGTON, July 28 (UPI) — Senator J. W. Fulbright has given a first-person confirmation that the Central Intelligence Agency "made the case" for the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion.

The Arkansas Democrat said in a censored version of secret Senate debate of July 14 that what had been written about the agency's role before the April 17, 1961, invasion was "by and large, absolutely correct."

The four-hour debate was on a proposal to add three Foreign Relations committeemen to the Congressional group that oversees C.I.A. operations. The proposal was defeated.

Mr. Fulbright said he had attended a two-hour meeting at the State Department with President Kennedy, Allen W. Dulles, then head of the C.I.A., and 15 other persons he did not identify.

"This was before the Bay of Pigs," Mr. Fulbright said. He said Mr. Dulles had presented "the case for intervention."

The Fulbright statement was the first on-the-record confirmation from a participant in the preinvasion talks.

Mr. Fulbright cited the Bay of Pigs and other unspecified cases of C.I.A. intervention in foreign relations as reasons his group shared representation on the C.I.A. watchdog panel.

"I think many of the C.I.A. activities tend to discredit the integrity of our country, and these activities raise a number of questions with respect to the influence of our foreign policy," Mr. Fulbright said.

He asked, "How can we [the committee] give any advice that is worth anything if we are not informed as to what is going on and if we do not have the information on which to base a judgment?"

Two U.S. Girls Assaulted By Thugs in Caracas Slum

CARACAS, Venezuela, July 28 (UPI) — Two girls from the United States who are working with a private social organization were assaulted by three knife-wielding thugs in a Caracas slum recently but escaped with minor injuries, officials reported today.

They were identified as Diane Green, 22 years old, of Easton, Pa., and Aminta Lara of El Cajon, Calif.

The girls, who were accompanied by an official of the organization, Accion de Venezuela, suffered superficial knife cuts on the arms and their clothing was torn. The official, Luis Alfredo Landaeta, was not injured.

North Carolina would be the principal beneficiary, receiving $38.5-million more, Mississippi would get $37.5-million; Alabama, $35.2-million; Tennessee, $31.9-million; Texas, $31-million; Georgia, $30.9-million; Kentucky, $23.5-million.

The committee bill also would increase the poverty income level, on which allocations are based, from the present $2,000 a year to $3,000, effective next year.

Both of these allocation changes, proposed for next year by the House, would be provided this year under a school-aid bill approved by a Senate Education subcommittee. The Senate bill calls for $3.2-billion for the current fiscal year alone.

Piccard Building Submarine For Study of Gulf Stream

MONTHEY, Switzerland, July 28 (UPI) — Landlocked Switzerland, with the help of United States business, is building a submarine for scientific research on North America's Atlantic coast.

The submarine, the PX-15, is scheduled to sail next year from Miami to Halifax, N.S., at an average depth of 2,600 feet. The purpose of the six-week trip is to study animal life along the Gulf Stream.

The 115-ton, 50-foot submarine was designed by Jacques Piccard, the Swiss diving expert. It is being assembled in a factory here. It was said to be financed by the Grumman interests of New York.

for needy children.

In addition to the neighborhood program begun today, the law sets up health programs for maternal and child care, for crippled children and special projects for mentally defective children.

Further expansion of health care for needy children will be possible under another provision

Senate Gets Bill to Issue Lapel Pins to G.I. Families

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP) — Gold star lapel buttons would be issued to the next of kin of military personnel who died or die in Vietnam and other combat operations under a bill sent to the Senate today by its Armed Services Committee.

The emblems are the same as those issued during World Wars I and II.

A Pentagon witness told Senators that the buttons would go to parents, wives, children and other next of kin of any who died in military operations since June 30, 1958. That date marked the beginning of the United States military operation in Vietnam and has been used for other military awards.

In addition to Vietnam, awards would be made for these military operations: Berlin, Lebanon, Quemoy and Matsu, Taiwan Strait, Congo, Laos, Dominican Republic and Cuba.

The measure was previously approved by the House.

Mexsana beats the heat...absorbs moisture 80 times faster...

Keeps you drier, stops skin discomforts, body odor for hours!

Made from medically superior cornstarch, Mexsana Medicated Powder relieves hot weather skin irritations as no talc can.

After every shower, shower on Mexsana... and you'll stay drier, fresher, more comfortable for hours! Freer of body odor, too.

Moisture is the main cause of hot weather skin discomfort. Mexsana absorbs moisture as no talc can. Helps eliminate this cause of so much itching, heat rash, chafe—other distressing skin irritations.

Why is Mexsana so different?
It's made with medically superior cornstarch—velvety smooth and soothing as well as super absorbent. In addition, Mexsana has medications that destroy unpleasant, odor-causing skin bacteria.

Let Mexsana help you stay comfortable—even in the hottest weather. (When you're rushed, use it instead of a shower.) Ask for cooling, protecting Mexsana.

Helps Prevent Itching. You get cool relief—and more! Mexsana helps prevent hot weather itching, many other forms of skin distress.

Deodorizes. More than a mere perfumed "cover-up" deodorant, Mexsana destroys bacteria that cause odor—it makes you feel fresher all day.

How medical knowledge fights acid indigestion